▶ Training for School Personnel

Sexual abuse is a challenging topic to discuss, but necessary. Promoting the well-being of students is paramount, and preventing sexual abuse is integral to their health. Delving into a challenging yet crucial subject, this course equips school employees, who are mandatory reporters, to identify signs of potential predators. It covers recognizing grooming behaviors, age of consent law, and much more. With a focus on overcoming reporting barriers, the training explores real-world systematic failures and aims to enhance the protection of youth from sexual abuse within educational environments.
